Healthy Cities

The World Health Organisation's Healthy Cities is a global movement. It aims to put health high on the social, economic and political agenda and to promote local strategies for health promotion, health protection and sustainable development.

Cork City was designated as a WHO Healthy City in January 2012. The launch of the new Phase VI of the WHO Healthy Cities Network in June 2014 provides an opportunity for Cork to re-apply and develop an Action Plan for 2014-2018.

Our Vision

"A city that connects to improve the health and well-being of all its people and reduce health inequalities".
